

September 2025

Eatrenalin presents new eight-course menu concept by four two-star chefs

Peter Hagen-Wiest has been awarded two Michelin stars for his restaurant Ammolite – The Lighthouse Restaurant at Europa-Park Resort for eleven years in a row. Since May of this year, he has also been responsible for the cuisine at the multi-sensory fine dining restaurant Eatrenalin, where he is now surprising his guests with a very special concept. For the current experience, he has invited three fellow two-star chefs to join him in creating this unique culinary journey of indulgence.

The quartet, consisting of Christian Kuchler from the Schäfli restaurant in Wigoltingen, Switzerland, Stefan Heilemann from the Widder in Zurich and Paul Stradner from the Villa René Lalique in Wingen-sur-Moder, Alsace, France, created a new eight-course menu for Eatrenalin guests to enjoy.

This innovative culinary concept was presented for the first time on 31 August at the highest level, in the presence of the four two-star chefs. As part of the event, renowned chefs and industry experts such as Peter Knogl, Johann Lafer, Tanja Grandits, Douce Steiner, Viktoria Fuchs and many others celebrated the première of the new menu. The individual culinary worlds on the fine dining journey were infused with the chefs' individual signatures. Each of the three guest chefs created one course, with Peter Hagen-Wiest responsible for the remaining courses.

Peter Hagen-Wiest: "I am delighted to have been able to create the new menu together with three of my top chef friends. Each one brings their own signature style, philosophy and passion. That's what makes this experience so unique for our guests. It's a collaboration at the highest level that perfectly reflects the possibilities of Eatrenalin."

"Eatrenalin is all about innovation, emotion and the highest quality. It is a great privilege for us to bring together four culinary visionaries and offer our guests an unforgettable culinary journey with a multi-sensory experience," says Thomas Mack, founder and CEO of Eatrenalin.

Press contact:

Diana Reichle

Corporate Communications Eatrenalin Europa-Park

Roland-Mack-Ring 5, 77977 Rust, Germany

media@eatrenalin.com